It is with great pleasure that I can confirm that Professor Ahmed Badawy, successfully defended his Ph.D. thesis entitled: "Oral agents for induction ovulation" on the 2nd December 2008 at the University of Utrecht.

The manuscript for his thesis had been previously examined by international experts in the field and was deemed to meet the requirements of the University Utrecht for proceeding to defence in public. Professor Badawy underwent public examination Tuesday 2nd December and acquitted himself with distinction.

On the basis of his thesis and defence, the examining committee under the chairmanship of Professor J. Kimpen, Chairman of the University Medical School of Utrecht, agreed unanimously to award Professor Badawy with the degree of Ph.D. from the University of Utrecht.

It was a pleasure to supervise this thesis and I wish professor Badawy every success in his future career.

With kind regards.

Yours sincerely,

Prof. dr. N.S. Macklon
